THE MONROE DOCTRINE. SENATOR BURNSIDE ON THE ISTH-

MUS PROJECT. The Subject of Mexican and Indian Massacres in Texas since 1878 before the House.

WASHINGTON, June 25 .- SENATE .-The President pro tem was unable to be present on account of illness, under rule four appointed Senator Eaton as presiding officer. A communication was received from the Secretary of Treasury transmitting information asked for by the Senate in relation to an action of the National Board of Health under an act authorizing a contract for refrigerating, ships etc. Re-

Senator Vest introduced a concurrent resolution favoring remonétization and free coinage of silver; ordered printed. Senator Burnside introduced a joint resolution reaffirming the principles of the Monroe doctrine, and declaring that the people of the United States would regard with serious inquietude the establishment of a canal across the Isthmus of Darien under the protection and domination of European powers; re-ferred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs. Senator Beck's concurrent resolution providing for a joint com-mittee to recommend changes, if nec-essary, in the methods of collecting revenues and making appropriations, was considered and referred to the Finance Committee. The unfinished business was then taken up, viz: The joint resolution providing for extra pay for clerks, pages, and other employees of Congress during the session. The pending question was on Senator Wallace's amendment to Senator Ingersoll's amendment, the two together forming the clauses of the judicial bill lately vetoed. Senator Windom spoke upon the record of the Republican party as compared with that of the Democrats; he was replied to by Senator Saulsbury. The debate finally ensued upon the al-leged frauds and defalcations of the Republican administration, and at the close of the discussion the Senate ad-

Dividing the Judicial Appropriation

WASHINGTON, June 25.—An adjourned meeting of the advisory committees of the Senate and House caucuses was held this morning, and it was agreed to recommend to the joint Democratic caucus of the two houses that the provisions contained in the vetoed measure making appropriations for judicial expenses of the government be divided into two bills, the first to contain all appropriations of the vetoed bills except the item of $600,000 for fees of United States Marshals and their

This bill will also embody sections providing for the repeal of the juror's test oath and amendments of the law in regard to drawing juries. The second bill, which it is proposed to pass immediately after the first, will be made up of the above mentioned items together with clauses prohibiting the expenditure of any portion of that amount for the payment of deputy marshals of elections or incurring of any liability by appointing such officers during the fiscal year. It is understood that in addition to inserting the substance of the second section of the vetoed bill in this supplemental measure, penal-ties of fine and imprisonment will be prescribed for the violation of its restrictive previsions. Preparation of the phraseology of the bills will be completed by the sub-committee and submitted for final approval at anothe joint meeting to be held at three o'clock this afternoon. The joint caucus will probably be held soon after-

Hon. John L. Cochran, judge of the County Court of Albemarle county, requesting him to so reconstruct the persons to take their places on the grand and petty jury. The ground of the memorial is that the colored people cannot expect impartial trials by juries wholly alien to them "in race, color, interest and feelings". The trial of colored persons by exclusively white jurors is denounced as unfair and re-pulsive to the ordinary instincts of justice. They claim that under the law of the State, as well as under the fourteenth amendment, they have as much right to sit in the jury-box as to vote and pay taxes. The judge answered the memo-rial at once and respectfully. He says questions in connection with citizenship have not been finally adjudicated, but he is satisfied the statutes do not give any particular class of men the right to demand being put upon the jury list. The making of the jury lists is a matter left to the sounds discretion of certain officials designated by law, and all that they are bound to do in the premises is neither to include nor exclude any on account of his color.

An Old-Time Bloody Duel. Vashington Letter to Boston Herald.

Among the many bloody duels on record as having been fought by Congressmen was one in which James Jackson, of Georgia—who had been and who was afterward a United States Senator—was the challenged party. He was "an Englishman," like the hero of "Pinafore," by birth, but he came to Sayannah when a lad, studied law, was a leading Free-Mason, and fought gallantly in the Revolutionary War. He killed Lieutenant-Governor Wells in 1780 in a duel, and was engaged in several other "affairs of honor," un-til he finally determined to accept a challenge on such terms as would make it his last duel. So he prescribed as the terms that each party, armed with a double-barreled gun loaded with buckshot, and with a hunting-knife, should row himself in a skiff to designated points on opposite sides of the Savan-nah River. When the city clock struck I2 each party should start and row his skiff to a small island in the middle of the River, which was wooded and covered with underbrush. On arriving at the island, each party was to moor and then go about on the island till the meeting took place. The seconds waited on the main land until after 1 o'clock, when they heard three gunshots and loud and angry cries. Then all was still. At daylight, as had been agreed upon, the seconds went to the island, and found Jackson lying on the ground, insensible from the loss of blood, and his antagonist lying across him, dead. Jackson recovered, but would never relate his experience on that night, nor was he ever challenged again. He died in this city, while serving his second term as United States Senator, March 19, 1806.

A Case of Morals vs. Art.

Washington Capital. The beautiful new court house in Rockford, Hilnois, was planned by an accomplished architect, and it was a source of pride to Rockfordians long before it was completed. They thought Capitol at Washington: but what was the surprise of the ingenuous inhabitants to view encircling the cornice under the dome an elaborate group of Cupids dancing in the most at fresce which suits ancient gods and goddesses painting and sculpture. Venus, the supposed mother of Cupid, was also present in her supposed lack of attire, and the Rockfordians, who had never neard of Anthony Comstock, was about as much puzzled as good and virtuous folk ever have been. There was a pub-lic meeting called, and the committee appointed for the purpose not being able to make a satisfactory report, they at last appointed a committee of old women to go and examine into the recommended the instant demolition of

Then the town folk in solemn procession went to the court house with pick and shovel, chisel and hammer, having first locked up all the girls a home to keep them from seeing the objectionable thing, and in about a day succeeded in disfiguring the beautiful little naked boys and making the cornice moral and respectable.

This reminds one of the Graphic's print of the entry of Charles V. into Vienna, after the famous picture, and behold Anthony Comstock forbade the exhibition of the paper in the shop win-dows for Anthony knew little of Charles V. and less of art. He was like the Indian whose portrait was painted by certain eminent artist, and when aske what he thought it was, he said a steamboat, taking it for granted that the shrewd pale face would paint the grandest thing he had.

State Rights. A story is told of an application made by the late Senator Ben Wade, in behalf of a company of cavalry, to Secretary Stanton. At the beginning of the War about one hundred men of Cincinnati, O., organized a company of cavalry, and, as Ohio was not enlisting soldiers at that time in that branch of the service, they were attached to a regiment. They proved to be good soldiers, but at the end of a year wanted to be transferred to an Ohio regiment. The Government and Senator Wade set about to accomplish the change. Mr. Wade made an eloquent appeal to the War Secretary. He told him that the men had a natural pride for their na-tive State, and wished her to receive the thonor of her success in arms, etc. After hearing Mr. Wade patiently, Mr. Stanton said: "State troops, State credit, State rights—I tell you, Mr.

Wade, we have entirely too much of Robert Jones Hanged at Tarbor Yesterday--- A Warning to Mur-derers once More Repeated.

TARBORO, June 25 .- Robert Jones, the negro who murdered Rudolph Eaton (white) in the village of Rocky Mount on the night of December 25, 1877, was to-day publicly hanged at Beaver Dam, on the suburbs of this

The fact that Jones was twice convicted, each time on circumstantial evidence, was three times sentenced to be hanged and was by many

SUPPOSED TO BE INNOCENT, all tend to make his case an interesting one and hence a full account of the crime, the defendant's several trials, etc., will not be out of place here.

On the morning of December 26th. 1877, the dead body of Rudolph Eaton was found under a shelter on the side walk in front of Gay's store in Rocky Mount. Eaton was lying on his back, his skull was fractured and he was perfeetly stiff, showing that he must have been killed with some heavy blunt in-strument and that the job had been performed in the early part of the night previous. The only thing which afforded anything like a clew by which the mystery surrounding this foul murder could be cleared up was a SMALL PIECE OF PINE BARK with a knot hole in the center which was found lying on Eaton's breast, The finding of the body created quite a stir in Rocky Mount, and crowds gathered around to view the remains of the murdered man.

About ten o'clock a colored man named Isaac Sessums, who lived about two miles from the village, joined the crowd which was gathered under Gay's shed viewing the body and after look-ing at it he said Bob Jones came to his house late the night before and said he "had been up to Rocky Mount, had FIGHTING LIKE THE DEVIL. and had killed a man under Gay's shed," Jones further told Sessums that he knew the man was dead for he went for him for the purpose of killing him, and finished him with a stick. Sessums said Jones was under the nfluence of liquor at the time and he supposed was only boasting in a half drunken way as was usual with him, therefore he (Sessums) paid little atten-tion to him, but Alice Sessums, his wife, became interested in Jones' story and questioned him closely.

Alice Sessums was promptly sum-moned and without being allowed to see her husband before testifying, she corroborated all Isaac had said and in addition said Jones told her he had a quarrel with the man in the afternoon and waited until night to get a good

He lived at Sessums' house. It was well known in Rocky Mount that Eaton and Jones fought twice during the afternoon, both being on a kind of Christmas spree. Following the route which Alice Ses-sums said Jones told her he took, a heavy pine stick was found with the bark peeled off near the end. The piece of bark found on Eaton's breas exactly fitted the skinned place on the stick and there was a knot on the stick corresponding with the hole in the

TAKEN HIS DEPARTURE.

Several days atterward he was arrested in Wilson county, and brought back to Rocky Mount, where a preliminary trial was held which resulted in sending Jones here to jail to await the action of the grand jury.

At the June term of 1878 of Edgecombe Superior Court, Jones was in-dicted and tried before Judge Henry. He was found guilty and and sentenced to be hanged. Dossey Battle, who had most ably defended the prisoner, appealed to the Supreme Court and there by obtained a new trial for Jones. The second trial came off in October 1878, before Judge Seymour, when the prisoner was again found guilty, again sentenced to be hanged and again appealed to the Supreme Court.

This time the higher tribunal sustained the lower court, and at last April term of Edgecombe Superior Court, Judge Eure presiding, Robert Jones for the third time was sentenced to be hanged. Judge Eure, in sentencing the prisoner, said the custom of hanging crimi-nals on Friday, the day on which

THE SAVIOUR WAS CRUCIFIED, was all wrong, and furthermore the making of Friday a hangman's day had awakened a superstition that, to say the least of it, was unwholesome to society. His Honor then perpetrated an innovation on the established rule by naming Wednesday, May 28th, as the time for Bob Jones to test the strength of hemp.

The unfortunate negro always stoutly denied his guilt. He declared he had not seen Eaton that night; and was as innocent of the crime of murder as was the judge who sentenced him. There was something in Jones' man-ner when he stood before the judge, and with uplifted hand declared his in-nocence, which caused many spectators to believe him. There were many other circumstances which led persons to believe in his innocence and hence a strong petition to the Governor for a commutation of the sentence to life imprisonment was easily gotten up. THIS PETITION WAS PRESENTED to the Governor only a few days before the time appointed for the execution and in order that he might have suffi-cient time to give the case careful consideration Governor Jarvis respited

Jones until to-day.

The Governor gave the matter unusual attention; owing perhaps to the fact that the petition contained the name of so many prominent and highly respectable men, but finally concluded that there were not sufficient grounds for executive interference and notified the prisoner's counsel that he could not stay the hangman's hand. Robert Jones was a genuine negro, with what is unusual with such, a high forehead and quite an intelligent looking face. He had a cheerful look all the time and remarkably musical and attractive voice.

He was something over 50 years old, and was stout and well made. He always bore a fair character, his PRINCIPAL FAULT BEING DRUNKENNESS. When he was in liquor he was exceedingly disagreeable and trouble-some but when sober (which was the

b. S. W. Ronard St. Pallimore, M. of a

him) be was quiet, good natured and very obliging.

He has always had a most ravenous appetite, none of the phases of the trying ordeals through which he has passed since Christmas, 1877, have inter-fered with it until the last act in the fered with it until the last act in the drama to-day shut off his capacity for getting away with hog and hominy.

As an evidence of his fondness for grub I cite the following told me by his counsel: During his first trial at the Spring term, 1878, Jones through his counsel appealed to Judge Henry to suspend the proceedings of the court a few moments so that he might partake of his breakfast, having been brought in from jail before the meal was served to the prisoners. He has never gramto the prisoners. He has never grum-bled at his prison fare and is a great favorite with all his custodians. He has been a prisoner under two different sheriffs and jailors. Like all other negroes who end their days with a rope around their necks, Jones has

FOUND THE NEAREST AND SUREST ROUTE TO HEAVEN to be via the gallows. He has of course made a profession of religion and went straight from the gallows to glory as soon as the trap fell. At least he said so, and your reporter wouldn't like to accuse a dying man of telling a

The gallows has been used before. It a mile from the center of town at a place called Beaver Dam, and is well arranged with a falling trap door, thrown by a quick trigger and performs, when properly managed, its work of his de-struction in the quickest and most satisfactory manner.

Jones ate a hearty breakfast this morning and all the forencon was calm and COOL AS THE CENTRAL SEEDS OF A CU-CUMBER. The religious exercises, in which he joined with zest, did not seem to excite him, and generally he was taking things as quietly as though it was the hanging of some one else he was going to attend in such a short while.

At 10:50 the sheriff with the prisoner, in an open wagon, left the jail, the Edgecombe Guards, together with a colored fire company in red shirts, acting as an escort; part of the Guards were on the gallows. Jones talked for a long time, strenuously denying his guilt. At times he would laugh and joke, and seemed to take particular delight in poking fun at the sheriff as well as at others. In his farewell speech he dwelt long on his religious dwelt long on his religious experience and stated that he believed he was go ing straight to heaven. He was by turns witty and eloquent, and was one of the coolest men ever seen on the gallows. When he had finished he trank a glass of wine in remembrance of his brethren in Christ and shook hands with many who went up for that purpose. The minister then prayed for him, spoke a few words of warn ing, sang a hymn, and then the cap wa drawn over his face, the noose adjusted and at 12:33 the trap was sprung, and the body of Robert Jones was dangling in the air. At the first he seemed to suffer severely. At the expiration of twenty-six minutes he was pronounced dead, and then it was ascertained that he died of strangulation.

An Iowa Opinion.

Ex-Senator Wright, of Iowa, in an interview with a reporter of the Indi-anapolis (Ind.) Journal, says:-"If delegates to a national convention were selected now the State would be almost solid for Grant. Of course you remember that Iowa was very heartily in favor of Blaine, and he would undoubtedly be the second choice again; but I think the feeling is that Grant is the man of destiny, while others say he is the only man whose election might be considered absolutely certain. would, I think, be more popular in Ohio and some of the New England States than any other man, and in New York he would be as strong as Conkling; and it must be remembered that Conkling, even if he could carry New York as well as Grant, would not be a strong candidate in any other State. If Grant comes home quietly and dis-countenances all demonstrations when he reaches San Francisco—if he just he reaches San Francisco—if he just waits quietly the course of events, as he will most likely do, judging from his past career—I really think that he is more likely to be nominated than any anybody else. But of course if this big excursion business from San Francisco is carried out, they will most assuredly greatly injure the chances of his success and disappoint the friends of the success and disappoint the friends of the

THE HULL MYSTERY.

ARREST OF THE MURDERER IN BOSTON.

He is Captured while Leaving a Church and with the Dead Lady's Jewelry on His Person:

NEW YORK, June 24 .- A Poston telegram late last night states that Christian Cox, a negro, was arrested about an hour ago charged with the murder of Mrs. Hull. He was just coming out of church on Shawmut avenue when captured by the officers, and Mrs. Hull's watch and ring were found in his possession. Cox had confessed his guilt. The green cameo set of jewelry has been recovered at Steinberger's pawnshop, corner of Market and Merrimac streets.

The Hull murder, therefore, is mystery no longer. There is an end to theories, some of them only less atrocious and cruel than the murder itself. There is an end to wild speculations and unjust suspicions. To the credit of those at the head of the Police Department, and no less to the credit of the men who have acted under the instructions, there has been clue-following to some purpose.

The murderer has been captured in Boston, and confesses to the commission of the horrible crime with which he is charged. On his person was some of the property of the nurdered wo-man. So extraordinary were the details of the killing of Mrs. Hull as to excite, to an unusual degree, a public not ac-customed to horrors. With vehemence, born of its sympathy, the public has demanded the discovery and produc-tion of the murdown tion of the murderer.

THIS DEMAND RAS BEEN COMPLIES

and the public can now breathe freely again. The abrupt termination of the inquest yesterday caused much sur-prise, as the public had not the slightest intimation that the detectives had been working effectively in quite another direction than that to which the proceedings at the inquest pointed. The general conclusion, however, was that some new and very important velopment had taken place. What this might be, however, was not learned until midnight, when the news was received at Headquarters announcing the arrest of the negro Cox.

The first news of the capture was the following disputch received by Ingresses

The first news of the capture was the following dispatch received by Inspector Murray who immediately announced the news to the reporters, and, adding that personally he knew nothing further, telegraphed for Coroner Woltman, who shortly after arrived. Captain Williams had received a discretication of the captain williams and received a discretication. patch at the same time as Inspector Murray, and immediately left his etation and hastened to the Grand Central Depot, where he took a train to Boston. In his office at midnight were gathered Captain Kealy, Commissioner Daven-port, Detective Dorsey and a number of police officials discussing the capture of the murderer. It appeared immediately that so far from discrediting the Boston theory, it has been worked up and followed to a successful end ever since Monday June 16th. "It is a complete victory," said Cap-tain Kealy, "and it is a complete case.

Long ago we had

NOT A SHADOW OF DOUBT LEFT as to who was the guilty man. The only question was to find him. Only this morning I received letters from two Boston detectives, Garret and Wood, reporting progress. The derer's capture was a matter of time only. He is as good as at the rope's

From Commissioner Davenport and Captain Kealy a connected story of the work done by the police in pursuit of the murderer was learned. After the police lost his track, and while they were endeavoring to trace him by the aid of the description obtained by his person the stolen cameo set was pawned by a negro at a Boston pawn shop for $4.50. An accurate description of all the stolen jewelry had been sent to Boston by Superintendent Walling, and it fur-nished the clue to the pawnbroker, but nished the clue to the pawnbroker, but too late to arrest the negro. The cames set was pawned on Monday, June 16th, at 1 p. m., and at 5 p. m. the police of the city were informed. The only possible measure was taken at once to se-cure the negro. Detective Schmittberger of the Twenty-ninth Precinct was sent to Boston, and gained information of such importance that it was deemed unsafe to commit it to the telegraph. His arrest was expected any moment, and to the police and Commissioner Davenport, who has followed and advised upon every step in the case, the capture when it was announced, was hardly news, so certain had its occurrence been made.

It was said last night by a police offi-cial who has been most active in the case that the jealousy Bristow Francis confessed to-day to have cherished against a young man belonging in Boston, who had been too intimate with his wife Nancy Francis, Mrs. Hull's colored cook that the negro was the confessed mur-derer, or was said by inference at least. If this proves the true solution of the mystery, the arrest of Nancy Francis will, of course, follow to-day. The latest private dispatch received from Boston from a friend of Captain Williams states that Cox says that he got in through the window. The disgot in through the window. The dispatch adds that there is every probability that Cox had one or more accomplices, but so far he refuses to implicate any one. At one time he expressed his willingness to come on to New York without a requisition, and other times he says the requirements of the law must be complied with in any case. However, it is expected that he will reach New York this morning or during the afternoon.

HISTORY OF THE MURDERER.

On investigation here last night it was learned that Cox, the confe murderer, lived across the street from Mrs. Hull's for quite a time. His neatness and quiet demeanor drew Mrs. Hull's attention, and when he left his place she sent for him and installed him as head waiter. He held this po-sition for about two months, when he left in consequence of a disagreement with some of the boarders. In a short time, however, he returned in a destitute condition, and Mrs. Hull took him back, bought him new clothes, in-creased his wages, and instructed the boarders and servants not to interfere with Cox. After this he became indoent, and so impertinent that several of the boarders were compelled to leave the boarders were compelled to leave the house.

Cox and Nancy Bristow were con-stantly quarreling, and after about five weeks' service he again left, and all trace of him was lost for a time. About five weeks ago he called and left a note for Mrs. Hull, promising to call for a reply. He was again missing from the Hull residence until about three weeks ago, when he once more put in appearance, and asked for a personal interview with his benefactress. This was granted and after a prolonged conversation it was arranged that Cox should again be reinstated, and Mrs. Hull so informed the servants. Before leaving Cox was asked by Nancy what business he had with "Missus," and he replied that he had called to make arrangements to clean the carpet and white-wash the lower portion of the house. He added that Mrs. Hull had agreed to have everything ready in two weeks at which time he would return. During the conversation he displayed a quanti-ty of silver coin which he said Mrs. Hull had given him. When about 10 leave turning upon Nancy he remarked:

"YOU BLACK NIGGER, TAKE CARE! "I am coming back soon—sooner than you expect. There are folks in this house I will get square with and you are one of them."

He left and since then until yesterday othing has been heard of or from him A week ago yesterday he sold a cameo set for six dollars and a half, since which time the Boston police have been on his track. No one seems to have known that Cox worked over the way from Mrs. Hull's until a few days ago when the fact became known and the Boston police were notified.

Roscoe Conkling for President.

From the Geneva (Ill.) Republican. To our mind there is only one man who can save the Republican party from defeat in 1880. If he is defeated in the Convention the Republican party will be defeated at the polls. That man is Roscoe Conkling. When the votes are counted up in 1880 it will be found that the Democrats have carried Alabama, Arkansas, California, Delaware, Flori-da, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, New Jersey, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia and Indiana, giving them 160 electoral votes to 174 for the Republicans, not counting New York. New York casts 35 electoral votes, and thus carries the balance of power. Which-ever way New York State goes in 1880 so goes the Union, and it is necessary that a strong man who can carry New York State without fail should be nominated. That man is Roscoe Conkling and he is the only man who can do it. Blaine cannot do it, neither can Grant; but Conkling can, and Conkling is the man whom the Republicans must nom-inate to save the land. He is the only Republican who can continue the line

One false step leads to many others. When Mr. Hayes, not without obvious reluctance, first yielded his own convictions of duty to stalwart diciation, he placed his neck in a yoko from which he can never liberate himself. Only a few weeks ago he made a feeble attempt to assert his independence, proclaiming himself satisfied with the Appropriation bills in their latest form. Immediately a prolonged and resonant howl went up along the whole Radical line, and Mr. Hayes was beset with menaces and implorations, asking him at all events to save the Supervisors and Deputy Marshals though everything else should be sacrificed.

There is no longer any superfluous goods in the riding habits; they are made tight fitting, but leaving perfect freedom of movement to the body. There are three kinds of "pantalon" worn with these habits. First, is the one made of the same goods as the habit, and worn with ordinary gaiters. The second is the half "pantalon," tight on the end, and closed in with the soft black boot. The third is the short trousers fastened above the knee, terminating in leggings which fasten over the trousers. The leggings and trousers are alwass of the same goods as the habit. How to Keep Ice in the Sick Room For those who have an abundant supply of ice this may not be a matter of much moment, but for poor people, who may rarely use ice except in sick-ness, and to whom the expense is not insignificant, the following hints from an English source, may be useful: "Cut a piece of flannel about nine inches square, and secure it by a ligature round the mouth of an ordinary tumbler, so as to leave a cup shaped depression of flannel within the tumbler to about halfits depth. In the flannel cup so constructed pieces of ice may be preserved many hours; all the longer if a piece of flannel from four to five if a piece of flannel from four to five inches square be used as a loose cover to the ice cup. Cheap flannel, with comparatively open meshes, is preferable, as the water early drains through it, and the ice is thus kept dry. When good flannel, with close texture is employed, a smal hole must be made in the bottom of the flannel guest otherwise it helds the flannel cups; otherwise it holds the water and facilitates the melting of the water and facilitates the melting of the ice, which is, nevertheless, preserved much longer than in the naked cup or tumbler. In a tumbler containing a flannel cup, made as above described, of cheap, open flannel, at 20 cents a yard, it took ten hours and ten minutes to dissolve two ounces of ice, whereas in a naked cup, under the same conditions, all the ice was gone in less than three hours,"

THE GRISSOM WAR.

VINDEX" SPEAKS IN BEHALF OF DR. CRAVES.

The Dector's Standing in the Medica Profession and in Society Shown, Substantiated by Documents.

Correspondence of the News. My attention has just been called to an article in the News of June 7th from Graham, in which "Taxpayer" instigated by unusual malevolence, makes a transparent point at Dr. Grissom, and forgetting or not knowing the ordinary courtesies of gentlemen, attempts to assassinate Dr. Craven with poisoned arms. Dr. Grissom is well able to take care of himself, and can find any number to defend him when necessary; as for Dr. Craven, time might correct all errors, but for the fact that this venomous writer, self-styled "Taxpayer," and his kith and kin, have grown fat and insolent upon arrogant assertion and assumption. He says "Dr. Craven had no reputation as a physician." That is not true, and "Taxpayer" is either

PALSE, OR INEXCUSABLY IGNORANT. For proof, let him or any other person examine the letters and recomm tions laid before Dr. Grissom and the Executive committee. "Taxpayer" probably belongs to that exquisite few, who affect to believe that there is no man desired an opportunity like this to hit both Dr. Grissom and Dr. Craven; nor do I say, as some do, that very few physicians in the State could have passed in like circumstances; but I do say, that not a few men declared that no say, that not a few men declared that no amount of proficiency in Dr. Craven could prevent his success before the Board from being uncertain. This case was touched on all sides, unjustly and unfairly it is true, but still touched, colored and influenced by a controversy rarely surpassed in feeling and bitterness; and "Taxpayer" shows it fiercely in his unprovoked and indecent taunt. As to the professional proficiency of Dr. Craven, there are two sides to that question, and with all respect to the State Board, there is more evidence for first class proficiency in this case than first class proficiency in this case than against it. Dr. Craven has the following against it. Dr. Craven has the following in his favor:

1. Graduation from one of the colleges of the State.

2. Graduation from a first class medical college.

3. Five years' regular and extensive practice in the profession.

4. The indorsement of nearly all the physicians in his section of the State.

5. The following from Dr. Hines, of Raleigh, on the recommendation of Drs. Raleigh, on the recommendation of Drs. Kirby and Haigh, after extensive ex-

RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 3, 1878.

This is to certify that Dr. J. L. Craven has been examined by two members of the Medical Board of Examiners, and found qualified to practice medicine in all its branches until the next regular meeting of the Board, and that his lithe two Examiners can sign and for ward it to him.

(signed) PETER E. HINES, M.D., Pres. Med. Board of Examiners.

6. Dr. E. B. Haywood, Dr. Fuller and Dr. Grissom, gentlemen who certain knew whereof they spoke, testified oath before the Retrenchment Com mittee of the Legislature, that "Dr. Craven was competent to discharge the duties of second assistant physician in the Asylum, as much so as any man of his experience could be." I qu memory, but the substance is as above stated. See evidence in the hands of

Dr. Grissom, or J. I. Scales, Esq. 7. At the last meeting of the Directors of the Asylum, resolutions were passed touching Dr. C., embracing the following sentence: "We assure him of our respectful consideration, and our appreciation of him as a gentlemen and a physician." These resolutions were seconded and warmly indorsed by Dr. Haywood, than whom North Carolina has no more distinguished

8. The record of the Asylum shows between 7,000 and 10,000 prescriptions made by Dr. C., and are open for inspection. Finally, whatever may have been the cause of failure at Greensboro, very few will attribute it to incompetency. few will attribute it to incompetency. Some who are competent to judge and know him well, assert that he has rare gifts and attainments in the profession, being surpassed by very few; and perhaps no human being, except Taxpayer, has drifted so far from the proprieties, sympathies and deconcies of life as to glory in a mortal stab at a young man, who is laudable in reputation outside of their own little circle, and no merit that they do not recognize and approve; hence in his small horizon Dr. C. had no reputation.

The assertion that Dr. C. had no reputation as a physician, is false in fact, uncalled for by the circumstances, glaringly vindictive, and even if true, would have been rude, if not brutal, since Dr. C. had attacked neither Taxpayer nor any other person.

since Dr. C. had attacked neither Taxpayer nor any other person.

"He says further; "Dr. Grissom either knew or did not knew that Dr. Craven was incompetent," and then assumes the incompetency as an established fact. As a foundation for this assumption he has the result before the State Board at Greensboro. That result is capable of several interpretations; more elements than competency may have been operative; predetermination, actualor virtual, is always possible in such cases; and the charge of having violated the law, that is, of having practiced medicine without the consent of the State Board; may have caused even honest men to give something less than due weight to the ability of the offender, Others may argue the merits of Dr. due weight to the ability of the offender, Others may argue the merits of Dr. Grissom's report, and the proper tribunal may decide whether he shall remain at the Asylum; but the Grissom war (between the ins and the outs) now three years old, is a shame to the State. It has been unparalleled in remoracless fury, in the use of means, in the employment of quibbles and technicalities; and in unfounded assertion. The honesty and motives of Directors have been assailed, the political lash has been applied, facts have been misrepresented, and now comes Taxpayer, perhaps a disappointed aspirant, eager to kill an innocent young man either for one more blow at Dr. Grissom or to dispense with a dangerous rival in the future.

A haggard man was seen yesterday morning by Officer Phillips of the Broadway Squad butting his head furiously against a letter box on 23d street. The man gave his name as Thomas H. Coughlin, and when he was brought to the Jefferson Market Court Justice Murray asked him the cause of his conduct.

"I am a postage stamp," answered Coughlin.

"Is that the reason you butted your head against the box?"

"Yes, I wanted to get in and go to Washington, where I'm directed to."

THURSDAY, - - - JUNE 26, 1879 THE MYSTERY SOLVED

By the arrest of Christian Cox, an account of which was given in our editorial columns, the suspense attaching to the murder of Mrs. Hull in New York is relieved. Apparently it was to add another link to the chain of unsolved mysteries connected with that city. A woman of some wealth found dead in her bed; some articles of jewelry gone, while others of equal value lying in plain sight untouched, and that portion taken being of most unique design and which the police considered as being suggestive of a motive other than the mere purpose of robbery. The approaches of the house were examined, and it was given out as a police theory that the murder must have been committed by some person in the house. Time seemed to drag along waiting for further developments. The public mind was getting thoroughly alarmed. If these things can happen continually and no cause or clew discovered, whose turn will it be next? The celebrated cases that have pever been satisfactorily selved were cited, commencing with that of Helen Jewett, and running along to the Burdell case. the Morris case, those of old Mr. Nathan and Alderman Morris, and finally the one under discussion, and the opinion has been expressed that no one's life was really safe no matter how well guarded in the ordinary sense of the term.

The arrest of the criminal in this case, therefore, has created some feeling of relief, as it would seem conclusive that the police authorities are not asleep all the time. In fact it is a wrong assumption that they are asleep even when they intimate that they have no real clews to any of these mysteries. It is wellknown that the late Superintendent Jourdan, could have laid his hand on the murderer of Mr. Nathan within twenty-four hours after the commission of the deed had he so chosen; detective Jim Irving chased the Burdell murderer up and ten years ago could have put him safe away. After keeping the country aroused for weeks over the Stewart grave robbery they have never yet acknowledged that Judge Hilton paid $50,000 and had the body securely buried. There are rings within police circles as well as other organizations.

An interesting feature of the capture of Cox is that after detectives had been searching for a week the man was finally spotted, shadowed and given up to the police by a newspaper reporter, thing. Once caught the murderer was completely demoralized and made what appears to be a full confession. He worked opposite the Hull mansion, entered the house only for the purpose of robbery, startled his victim, and the tragedy, as known, followed as naturally as tragedies always do when ignorant, terror-stricken brutes are brought to bay. Finally, it appears that all theories and supposed clews that have been worked in New York were wrong, and the horrible suspicion that has been fastened upon the unhappy husband of the murdered woman is to be removed at once and Ir is estimated, on the basis of the statistics reported for the port of New York. that the balance of trade in favor of this country and against the rest of the world for the eleven months ending May 31st was $265,000,000. The government's fiscal year ends June 30th, and the balance of trade in our favor during the fiscal year 1878 was $273,000,000. So it would seem from this approximate estimate that the current fiscal year will show a gain on 1878, although there has been a marked falling off since the first of January. What this balance in our favor amounts to will be better appreciated when it is stated that the United States is the only one of the great nations of the world which does not show a balance on the other side of the national ledger. The excess of imports in Great Britain is $600,000,000; Germany, $272,000,000; France, $45,000,-000; Russia, $60,000,000; Holland, $73,-000,000; Italy, $36,000,000; Belgium, $68,-000,000; Turkey, $30,000,000. There is an aggregate balance against these eight countries of $1,182,000,000.

THERE are a great many people, it would seem, that labor under the impression that the census-takers for next year will be appointed by members of Congress, and in consequence thereof Congressmen have been seriously annoyed by the reception of numerous applications from parties desiring the appointment. The appointment of supervisors will be made by the Secretary of the Interior, and they will appoint enumerators for the different counties. For the information of our readers we publish the following:

Any county exceeding 4,000 in population shall be divided into districts, so that no district shall contain more than 4,000 inhabitants. These enumerators (one for every 4,000 inhabitants) begin their duties on the first Monday in June, 1880, and must finish before July 1st-thus requiring the work to be completed in less than thirty days. The compensation will be two cents for each inhabitant, two cents for each death re-ported, ten cents for each farm, and fifeen cents for each establishment of productive industry. Applications for appointments as enumerators should be addressed to the supervisors of the State when appointed.

In regard to the condition of the money market during the coming summer, the New York Post says that the money lenders apparently look for a very easy loan market up to the autumn, as as is shown by offerings of round amounts to first-class stock firms at 3 per cent. annum for sixty days to four months and this on miscellaneous collaterals. On United States bonds the quotation is 2@21 per cent for the same

MR. BONAMY PRICE, the political economist, in a paper in the last number of the North American Review, attributes the stagnation of trade both sides of the Atlantic for several years past to the decreased purchasing powr of the people through the exhausting influence of wars. He looks for an early improvement as the result of the harmonious co-operation of capital and labor, largely increased production and

In these days of vast undertakings, when nothing seems impossible to do no matter how great the difficulties, it is absolutely refreshing to read now and then an adverse opinion of the feasibility of certain stupendous schemes. Some time since the famous M. DeLesseps proposed to flood the great Sahara desert by cutting a canal to the Mediterranean. The scheme has been pronounced practicable, and various papers have dilated on the vast benefits that would accrue to Africa thereby, in opening up a large trade that is only partially available by camel caravans as well as fertilizing the great sandy wastes. But now Mr. James E. Serrell writes to the New York Sun and advances the subjoined philosophical proposition:

Various publications have appeared in different parts, particularly in the London papers, setting forth a proposed plan of flooding the Desert of Sahara, thereby making it an ocean or inland sea, by opening a canal or channel from the Atlantic Ocean. The depth and size of the desert below the level of the ocean is stated as 500 to 750 feet; the area in square miles is over 2,000,-000; the average depth is not generally known, but suffice it to say that if such a project should be started, and not under the complete control of those in charge of the work, the earth could, and no doubt would, be thrown off its present balance, and the surface of all the waters to a certain extent would be changed in their level, which could be ascertained with certainty if the actual sizes and depth could be known; for "if every grain of sand removed alters the balance of the world," what would this great change do? It might cause the "end of the world," which, according to the prophecy of "Mother Shipton," will be in 1881. In this project all the world is interested.

SENATOR BAYARD, of Delaware, in a etter expressing his regret at being unable to fix a time for addressing the Democratic Union, of New York city, writes as follows: My clear views of duty and expedihave not, up to this time, been fully adopted by my party associates, and yet my faith in their propriety and their necessity has only been strengthened by the occurrences of the session. No plan of party action can be accepted which involves confusion in the orderly proceedings of our government in all its branches. No differences of opinion or obstructiveness by one department can warrant other departnents in withholding proper and needful supplies, or in failing to perform their own full measure of duty to the people of the United States and their government. To the sober and deliberate judgment and opinion of the American people must be submitted all issues, and, pending such decision, good order, quiet and regular conduct of public affairs must proceed. Congress is not a town meeting, but an assembly of delegates, acting under constitutional limitations, for the performwho seems to have taken the scent as and orderly maintenance and continunce of the government, under existing laws, is the first duty. To amend and repeal objectionable laws and enact new and needed reforms is a clear duty, but the mode, and only legitima mode, is clearly pointed out by the constitution, and no irregular methods can be justified.

Mr. Hayes' Chances.

Philadelphia Times. A movement in behalf of a second term of Hayes appears to be receiving a little encouragement in St. Louis among some Republicans who have been horrified by the proposition to run Grant again. Ex-Senator Henderson is created with being among the foremost in the movement, and is, no doubt, very much in earnest, as he has a well grounded grievance against Grant, who sat down upon the ex-Senator for pushing the Whisky Ring people so hard that there really began to be fear in administration circles that no guilty man would escape. It is not likely, how-ever, that anybody will be able to stir up much enthusiasm for Hayes; he has himself stood right in the way of any-thing probable in that respect, and has nobody's friendship in particular. He is very convenient to the stalwart portion of the party just now to bother the other party with his vetoes, but they have just as little love and regard for him now as they had two years ago, when he was carrying out the bargain by which he reached the Presidency and making a pretence of reforming the civil service of the country. Those who approved some of his efforts then don't see much in his more recent conduct to sustain them, and in general know others whom they had rather see leading the Republican hosts next vear. Hayes is about the last man in these United States to set up against the

The note, now well yellowed with age, is about three inches square. On the face of it, in the left center, is a square containing a ring, in the middle of which is a rudely-cut cornucopia. The hell of the horn contains a cut of a poor house. Beneath the horn is the same motto which Benjamin Franklin adopted for his issue of copper coinage: "Mind your business." On the reverse side are thirteen rings in a circle, with the names of the thirteen States comprising the Union at that time. In the contar circle is a smaller ring, with the enter circle is a smaller ring, with the inscriptions: "American Congress" and "We are one." At the bottom it is announced that the note was printed by Hall and Sellers in Philadelphia in 17.6. The denomination of the note when i was issued was two-thirds of a dollar.

Nonh's Ark.

Boston Herald. A new free-thought paper which comes to us is printed upon pink paper, and hence it ought to be the pink of propriety; but, on the contrary, it attempts to throw discredit upon Noah's ark. It irreverently asks it we can "believe that Noah built an ark about of large as a Lake Erie steamer, out of as large as a Lake Erie steamer, out of all proportion, which held 168,000 animals for 150 days?" And then goes on to copy the statement that a Fredonia man has been building a model of Noah's ark, on the exact scale of the dimensions put down in the Bible, but when put in the water the thing persisted in floating with the keel up. Our pink contemporary should remember that a ballast of 168,000 animals would he likely to overcome that tendency but skeptical philosophers rarely consider both sides of a question. If the editor of "The Infidel Monthly" had lived in the days of the flood, he would probably have been the degraded person to tell Noah to "go to — with your Exportation of Meat.

Mr. Wilson, United States Consul at Hamburg, in a despatch to the Depart-ment of State, relating to confiscated meats from the United States, desires to call the attention of our merchants and business men engaged in exporting produce and meats to Europe to the importance and necessity of sending none but the best, and to be certain, especially in meats, that no infection evists. A more thorough inspection of meats, hams, &c., sent abroad would increase our trade and do away with the general distrust now prevailing in Europe. A rigid and thorough microscopic msr e tion is now made in Germany by the government inspec ors of all pork, hams and meats coming from the United States.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

-Mr William M. Russ, who has been absent for some time past attending to his duties as one of the Fish Commission, is back again, still hale and hearty.

-Mr. D. Reid Upchurch, the clever deputy clerk of the Superior Court, is kept quite busy at this term. He understands his business, and his books are neat and accurate.

-The rehearsals of the Pinafore indicate much improvement both in the conception and acting of the characters. The public may expect more than they received before.

-The murder case of the State v. Henderson Alford is set for trial to-morrow. A special venire of one hun-dred men has been drawn. Messrs. J. Eaton Bledsoe, P. M. Briggs and B. B. Lewis are defendant's counsel.

-Mr. W. C. McMackin, a man of great energy and much business tact, is making a splended success in getting up a company to establish a tobacco warehouse for this city. Already the amount subscribed has reached $14,000. The ball is in motion and let it roll on.

-The price for admission to the Pinafore Friday night has been reduced to 50 cents with no extra charge for reserved seats. Those who desire to attend had better secure their seats at once. A large number have already been taken and it is probable that all the best seats will be taken to-day.

—Mumble-the-peg is a time-hon-ored game. Everybody in heathen-land and Christendom has played it. (You might as well believe it as hunt for opposing evidence.) It is a classical game—it attained to a high distinction in the Corinthian sports of ancient Greece. And with such eminent examples it was no wonder that at the Presbyterian picnic yesterday some of the sprightly youth of this locality in-dulged in this all-absorbing and soul-stirring game. There was Mr. Jesse Brown, who, with his eighty years of practice, stood proudly at the "top of the heap;" Mr. Julius Lewis was op-posed to such reckless gambling, but on being reminded that this noble pastime was invented by the Lace-dæmonii (or dæmonicusses-you pays your money and takes your choice) for the physical development of boys. his scruples and his hat aside and entered for the cestus, anglice belt, with ardor; E R. Stamps, Esq., who stands six feet in his profession (not in his boots, though), was performing (who is of sufficient altitude to take his lunch from the top of Mr. Stamps' head) was doing his level best, and succeeded, for to him was awarded the proud honor of extracting the peg from Mother Earth with his incisors, while Major Starke, who was already out of the game, stood ready to forward the glorious tidings to the Nation's Capital. Then these sportive lads sung with tuneful voices.

The Presbyterian Picnic.

The teachers and scholars of the First Presbyterian Sunday School and their friends and fellow citizens went out to Colonel Faison's country residence on Marsh Creek yesterday on a pic nic. larger number than ever attended before were promptly at the old depot at 8:30 o'clock and boarded the waiting train and were harmlessly landed at a pointjust six miles north of Raleigh and 3223 yards diagonally southwest of the picnic grounds. Mr. W. L. Primrose, the superintendent of the school, and master of ceremonies on this occa sion had prearranged everything with Mr. W. C. Stronach who has no equal for conducting such matters, and the best of order and decorum was preserved particularly by the children. The crowd soon reached the delightful spot, in a very little while the large yard was a regular flower garden girls! Croquet, tag, mumble the sports were entered into and enjoyed throughout the whole day. Mr. mour Whiting, Professor C. B. Fairchild and Mr. Shaw were the committee of arrangements, and received : vote of thanks for the faithful formance of their duty. There were only two pronouncedly sentimental couples. One strolled away to the brook under the shade of the stately elms; the other, more dashing and jaunty, discussed the beauties of nature which passed before them like a panorama as their dashing steed swiftly whirled them on.

The heavy men from the banking ouses of the city were there, but they didn't enjoy it much. It was a good thing for the "little children, but really it was very tiresome work." It was well enough to take a breath of fresh country air, though, and they managed to drag through. Everybody else was "perfectly delighted," and it was the best picnic ever given by the school. The attendance was nearly two hundred and fifty, and the whole entertainment was a succession of pleasant surprises. The Raleigh Silver Cornet Band furnished the music for the occasion and added as much as anything else to the enjoyment.

BOVINE, MISSISSIPPI, April 22, 1879. -The following correspondence will explain itself: A. WADDILL, Esq., LYNCHBURG, VA.-Dear Sir: Observ ing a certificate from you in reference to the "Iron and Alum Mass," of the Seven Springs, in Washington county. Diseases, would you have the kindness to inform me whether you used the "Mass" or the "Water;" also, a de-scription of the symptoms and such other information as you may deem pertinent. I am a long-time sufferer with Liver Complaint, and naturally feel very anxious on the subject of a remedy that will afford me even temporary relief. Your early reply will greatly oblige, very respectfully, WILLIAM BARR.

LYNCHBURG, Va., May 12, 1879 .- WM. BARR, Esq., Bovine, Mississippi—Dear Sir: Your inquiry in regard to the "Liver case" which was effectually cured in my family from using the "Seven Springs Mass," is before me.
The case referred to in my certificate was that of my wife's sister, who is now in her 80th year, and has been a member of my family for the last 27 years. She had been afflicted with Liver Disease for 30 years, sometimes almost dying with pains in the back, breast, and heaviness of the chest, heart-burns (intensely), sick stomach, vomiting, &c. I procured a few bottler of the "Mass" for her, and very soon of the sales of it, her health commenced to get better, and she con-tinued steadily to improve, and at this writing, so old, seemingly in as good health as a person who had never been afflicted with these diseases. She attributes her cure entirely to the efficacy of the "Seven Springs Mass." I regard it one of the greatest family medicines we have access to, not only for such diseases as above indicated, but for various other complaints for which it is recommended. Hoping these answers satisfactory, I am, very truly, A. WAD-DILL, Proprietor Lynchburg News. For sale by Wm. Simpson, Pescud, Lee & Co., and F. H. Heartt, Raleigh, N. C., and Druggists generally.
